Featuring numerous innovative initiatives for residential development, it was not only one of Shanghai’s largest residential redevelopment projects at that time, but also the first one introducing fully decorated, ready-to-move-in units, which was a breakthrough in Shanghai residential market which only offered “bare shell” units at that time.

One of Mr. Lee’s current main responsibilities is the implementation of the Company’s Three-Year Plan, which includes the expedition of the property completion rate to accelerate project development pace, decentralization of decision making on project development and management to project teams, and effective control on operation cost and manpower to meet the rapid expansion of the Company. Steadily maturing, this project has become a new landmark in Wuhan and its quality properties are well-received by the market. Foshan Lingnan Tiandi project was commenced in 2007. Situated at the centre of Zumiao Donghua Lane of Foshan with a planned GFA of approximately 1.64 million sq.m., the project has quickly come out from its incubation period under the leadership of Mr. Lee and will soon begin to create value and return for the Company.
